Target Group

Clinician Scientists, Medical Scientists & Postdocs ready for transitioning to junior group leadership or professorship

Organization

Office of the Dean for Research, Faculty of Medicine forschungsdekanat@uniklinik-freiburg.de

This event is aimed at researchers who are ready to move on from being a postdoc to junior group leader or professor. After expert inputs, you will join small, topic-focused roundtable sessions where you can discuss your challenges directly with leading scientists and fellow peers. These sessions address topics including the following: career building, mentoring, building a research network, international visibility, securing funding, building your own scientific identity and team as well as leadership. You'll receive practical, tailor-made answers to your specific questions and have ample time to network with successful academics.
